

The United States National Student Association:
Democracy, Activism, and the Idea of the Student, 1947-1978

Extended Table of Contents

This guide to my dissertation, “The United States National Student Association: Democracy, Activism, and the Idea of the Student, 1947-1978” (City University of New York, 2009), is intended to serve as an aid to browsing and research. It may be distributed without restriction.

—J. Angus Johnston, October 2009

Front Matter

Title Page .....	i
Copyright Page .....	ii
Signature Page.....	iii
Abstract .....	iv
Acknowledgments .....	vi
Author’s Note .....	ix
Epigraphs .....	x
Table of Contents .....	xi

Introduction

Introduction .....	1
Democracy, Ideology, and Activism in NSA.....	4
NSA and the Problem of Democracy .....	7
Internal Democracy.....	8
Democracy on the Campus .....	11
Democracy, Race, and Gender.....	17
Political Democracy at Home and Abroad .....	19
The Historiography of American Student Activism .....	22
The Historiography of NSA.....	25
The Historiography of the American Student .....	30

Chapter One
Precursors: Before 1946

Introduction .....	34
American Student Cultures Before 1900 .....	35
The Extracurriculum and the University in the Early 20 th Century .....	39
The Intercollegiate Socialist Society .....	42
National Student Cultures Between the First World War and the Crash .....	48

The National Student Federation of America.....	52
The American Student Union .....	53
Student Organizing Between ASU and NSA.....	61
Conclusion .....	65

Chapter Two Nascence: 1946-1947

Introduction .....	67
Veterans on the Campus .....	68
Planning for the International Union of Students .....	71
American Catholics and Postwar Student Organizing .....	73
Founding the International Union of Students.....	76
Initial Preparations for an American National Student Organization.....	81
The Demographics of the Chicago Conference.....	85
Events at the Chicago Conference.....	88
From Chicago to Madison.....	96
The Constitutional Convention Begins.....	100
The Constitutional Convention: The Role of Outside Organizations .....	103
The Constitutional Convention: National and Regional Structure.....	106
The Constitutional Convention: NSA Repudiates Exclusionism .....	108
The Constitutional Convention: Racial Discrimination .....	112
The Constitutional Convention: International Affairs .....	115
The Constitutional Convention: Elections.....	117
Conclusion: The Student As Student .....	120

Chapter Three Struggle: 1947-1950

Introduction .....	122
Establishing NSA.....	123
The Break with the International Union of Students.....	125
The Birth of the International Commission .....	128
NSA's First Congress: Madison 1948.....	132
NSA, Student Government, and the Crafting of a Domestic Agenda.....	139
Academic Freedom, the Student Bill of Rights, and Charges of Communist Infiltration .....	144
NSA and Racial Discrimination .....	152
The Question of Lobbying.....	156
NSA, Students, and Student Governments.....	158
NSA and the United States Government in the 1940s .....	162
The Search for New Sources of Revenue .....	166
The 1949 Congress .....	168
The Rift with the IUS Deepens .....	174
Allard Lowenstein and the 1950 Congress .....	176
Conclusion: The Changing of the Guard.....	180

Chapter Four Retrenchment: 1950-1956

Introduction .....	185
Financial Crisis, 1950-51 .....	186
Organizational Crisis and the Move to Colorado.....	188
NSA Restructuring at the 1951 Congress .....	193
The Establishment of the CIA Relationship .....	197
The 1952 Congress.....	201
NSA Finances in the Early CIA Era .....	203
The International Commission's Critics .....	210
The Bureaucratization of NSA and the Apotheosis of the International Commission.....	213
NSA and Domestic Politics in the Early CIA Era.....	221
Racial Discrimination .....	226
Early Signs of a Campus Awakening.....	229
Conclusion .....	233

Chapter Five Reawakening: 1956-1962

Introduction .....	237
1956: Domestic Reinvigoration and International Challenge.....	239
Domestic Programming and Political Debate in 1957 and After .....	245
NSA and Campus Governance in the Late 1950s .....	250
Civil Rights and the Southern Seminars.....	253
Shifts in Programming, International and Domestic.....	259
The Rise of the NIC and the Decline in Internal Oversight .....	262
Student Government and the Rise of Activism on the Campus of the Late 1950s .....	264
The 1959 Congress and the Return of Politics to NSA .....	265
The Sixties Begin .....	270
The Southern Project, Civil Rights, and the Birth of SNCC .....	275
SDS, the Activists, and the 1960 Congress .....	278
Liberals, Activists, and YAF in NSA.....	281
NSA's Finances at the Turn of the Sixties.....	284
The 1961 Congress: High Noon?.....	285
Education Reform and Student Rights.....	290
NSA Relations with SNCC and SDS in the Early 1960s .....	292
Conclusion .....	295

Chapter Six Transformation: 1962-1967

Introduction .....	297
The 1962 Congress .....	300

The Cold War and the Establishment-Activist Struggle.....	303
New Student Critiques of the University .....	306
The NSA Establishment Searches for the Center .....	308
The Activist Retreat and the Limits of Early-1960s NSA Reform.....	312
1963: The CIA Relationship Metastasizes .....	316
Transition in NSA's Southern Project.....	321
The 1964 Congress and the Dawn of a New Era.....	325
The Berkeley Free Speech Movement.....	330
The 1965 Congress: Activists Resurgent.....	335
The Sherburne Era: NSA in Transition .....	342
The 1966 Congress: Campus Radicalism Goes Mainstream .....	348
Citizenship and Power in the CIA-Era NSA.....	355
The Buildup to Disclosure.....	358
After the CIA Revelations.....	361
Conclusion .....	367

Chapter Seven Independence: 1967-1972

Introduction .....	370
The 1967 Congress.....	372
After the Break: 1967-68.....	383
Columbia 1968 and the Collapse of SDS.....	387
The Tutorial Assistance Center and the Deficiencies of the Grant Funding Model .....	389
The Center for Educational Reform.....	392
Identity Politics in NSA, 1968-69 .....	396
National Office Crises, 1969-70 .....	404
Vietnam .....	409
Gender, Sexism, and the Tabankin Presidency .....	415
Conclusion .....	418

Chapter Eight Toward USSA: 1972-1978

Introduction .....	419
Declension and Transformation .....	420
NSA and Lobbying .....	425
State Student Associations and PIRGs .....	428
The National Student Lobby .....	431
Treading Water.....	433
The Single Vice Presidency .....	436
The Staff Transformed .....	438
The Association on the Brink.....	441
Frank Viggiano .....	450
SSAs Come to the Fore.....	454
Towards Merger .....	457

The Merger Year .....459
USSA.....463

Conclusion

NSA and the Idea of the Student ..... 467
The Significance of the National Student Association .....471

Back Matter

Appendix A: Acronyms Used in the Manuscript .....482
Appendix B: NSA National Officers and Organizational Meetings.....485
Selected Bibliography.....492